Rules That Govern Organization of
M. Town Juveniles who Have
Erected a Long, Low, Rakish Club
House—The Officers and Charter Members.

Scottdale May 11—Club life is spreading here for this week, there was organized a club under the supervision of Golden Star Athletic Club a club house built complete a housewarming when and applications are on the waiting list so large that the house will have to be enlarged or the club kept down to a very limited membership. The Golden Star club house stands upon a vacant lot on Arthur avenue below Chestnut street in the neighborhood that John D. Kelly used for a wagon repository. A fine sign the old house made of timber is in the window of the new club house. The club is a local branch of archaic nature confined to no particular period unless it may be classed in it severity with the Colonial. The simple life is illustrated both inside and out since there is no attempt at luxury or vanity. The most important furnishing is a squat open fire place constructed of brick and topped with a discarded piece of sheet iron. The stove pipe is about the size of a gas pipe being made of iron and not all the smoke the entire club house is filled to a degree that is vexing upon the eyes and lungs. There is no other ventilation provided outside of the members own breath.

The charter members are Charles Galley, John Ferguson, Gla Lewis, George Ferguson, Frank Newell, Clido Pyle, John Kistner, Ned Rich, Raymond Dougherty and Clyde Grimm. Master Lowell is President Master Kistner Vice President. Miss Mary Ferguson, Mrs. Mary George Ferguson, Secretary. The members are about 10 years of age.

The rules seem of them possibly mystifying exact spelling being given to us as follows:

No swearing aloud in this club. No swearing about this club. No smoking over this club. No intent to join this club. No intent to leave this club. No intent to smoke in this club. No intent to leave this club. No intent to leave this club. The object of the club is to succeed stated by a prominent member is to keep us off the streets. So far the truant officer has not been compelled to inquire of the steward as to whether any particular members are in. There is no telephone, sideboard or billiard room.

GUBERNATORIAL BOOMS.

The Gubernatorial situation grows more interesting as the days go by. Gubernatorial booms are blossoming on every bush along the cow paths through the political patch called Pennsylvania.

Over in Westmoreland county a new one was launched last night to take the place of the Buff lost that has been lost in the Congressional contest. In Washington county, Congressman Acheson is a receptive candidate. Up among the hills of Somerset, that famous war hero, General William H. Koonz, is being groomed for the race, in utter defiance of the fact that he is a member of the Ogle family, Ogle being the name of his wife.

In the person of Robert S. Murphy, who has one electorate running in his interest in Somerset county. There is reason to suspect that the woods are full of candidates, and that there will be many on the filing line when the convention opens.

The Thompson boom is pretty well surrounded, but the opposition is not taken seriously. It is largely complimentary and experimental, and it will not stand the test of more than the initial ballots. Most of the time is to Harrisburg to make friends with the men in the party and with the state.

The mention of General Koonz's name suggests Congressional complications. It looks as if the Ogle family had effected a combination to protect its own. Cousin William and Cousin Jack's political partnership is suspected of having been formed for trading purposes in the interest of the latter.

Josiah V. Thompson is a straightforward business man. He will probably be a good man and fight it out in that way. In fact, his whole campaign will be conducted on these lines, and whether he wins or loses, it will be a clean hand.

BOROUGH ORDINANCES.

The Washington Record makes the following claims for more care and consideration in the passage of ordinances, especially those regarding franchises, and the making of borough constitutions.

Ordinances relating to franchises, contracts and the like should not be passed hastily, but should only be acted upon.

Ordinances may contain matters which should be omitted in addition to those that pertain to the franchises and a plan to secure the franchises should be arranged and adopted.

The members of the franchises should be asked to be consulted in order that proper contracts may be made, and that valuable franchises may not be given away in proper terms.

It is a fact that the franchises will be required to be granted to the franchises and placed in the hands of each franchisee, and the franchises should be arranged and placed in the hands of each franchisee.

Also it might be wise to provide that all ordinances should only be passed after a careful reading at a meeting of the franchisees, and the franchises should be adopted in the name of the franchisees, and not the name of the franchisee.

Reports as to the terms and conditions of the franchises could be made to the franchises, and the making of borough constitutions would be known.

Reports as to the terms and conditions of the franchises could be made to the franchises, and the making of borough constitutions would be known.

a few days ago. Any additional amendment to the franchises, or the removal and replacement of any franchise, or the removal of the members could be made. This would give the members a chance to consider the franchise, and to see that what may be done would be best interests.

The franchises, or corporations would be given the right to have a chance to be heard. Without such advantage information may never be given, and the members may be interested. As in all other local matters ordinances should be passed in the name of the franchisees, and the franchises should be made to have a chance to be heard.

There is much wisdom in these suggestions. They but follow on the best practices of legislation as adopted by the Councils of many of the larger towns and cities of the State as well as by the legislature.

THREE MORE CASES

On Monday's Civil List to Be Tried at Greensburg.

VERDICT IN SEVERAL CASES.

Two Cases From Jeannette Have Occupied the Attention of Judge McConnell the Entire Week—Routine Westmoreland Court Matters.

Special to The Courier Greensburg, May 21.—It looks now as if it would take the entire week to complete Monday's list of civil cases. Three yet remain to be tried, and if a trial is made the day's list will not be finished before Saturday. Two cases from Jeannette have occupied the attention of Judge McConnell for the entire week. The one case in which Michael Burton is the defendant, developed into quite a legal battle which wound up yesterday in a recess, until the jury could go to the Gross Town and view the premises in dispute.

The jury returned a verdict of $600 in the case of S. B. Sebold vs J. W. Logue & Sons. This was in action of a sum to recover the price of a roof put on by the plaintiff for the defendants.

The jury found for the plaintiff in the case of Elizabeth Wiss vs Samuel B Lehman. Some time ago the plaintiff sold and conveyed to the defendant a part of a lot of ground which he owned in South Greenburg. The defendant erected a dwelling house upon it and the plaintiff now claims that in building the house the defendant or his wife intentionally or carelessly placed a wall about twelve inches on the plaintiff's ground. When the plaintiff discovered this fact she brought this action of ejectment to recover the strip of ground appropriated by the defendant.

The verdict was for 64 cents damages and the land. This finding of the jury compels the defendant Mr Lehman either to move his building which would entail a great expense or buy the strip of ground appropriate by the defendant.

The $10,000 damage suit brought by Ella M. Wallman is the Keystone Case to recover damages for the loss of her father's life in the Hempfield mine has been continued to the August term.

Judge Doty's court will probably take up the case of Dr B. R. Smith vs John Fellows next. This is in action from a judgment rendered by John P. Elcher, Esq.

The next case to be taken up by Judge McConnell will probably be Daniel Jenkins vs Borough of Jeannette. This is an action to recover damages for injury to the plaintiff's property caused by the change of grade of street of defendant, but ought.

Beverly of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR
MCUTCHEON,
Author of "Graustark".

Copyright, 1904, by Dodd,
Mead and Company.

"I'll bet he wishes he were safely out of this place," murmured Mrs. Quinlan and two other women huddled themselves together with their coffee.

"The change is his," said Lorry tauntingly. "They were waiting for Marlaus the young Duke of Mirrox, was announced. The handsome Asaphian came with relief and dismay strug- gling for mastery in his face.

"Your highness," he said after the greetings. "I am come to inform you that Baron Baldos has one prime loss to account for. Asaphia has found her fugitive."

"Whoa?" cried the princess and Beverly in one voice and with astonishing eagerness, not unmixed with dismay.

"Three days ago," was the reply.

"Oh," came in deep relief from Beverly as she sank back into her chair.

The same fear had loomed in the hearts of the two young conspirators that they had lost.

"He does only to have him fall into the hands of his death if he does."

"I have a message by carrier from my wife in Asaphia," said Mirrox.

"She says that Frederic was killed near Labet by so diers, after making a gallant fight, on last Sunday night."

The Princess Volusia is rejoicing and has amply rewarded his singers. Poor Frederic! Beverly knew but little happiness in this life."

"There was a full minute of reflection before any of his hearers expressed the thought that had framed itself in every mind.

"Well, since Daniel and Frederic are accounted for, Baldos is absolutely obliged to be Christabel," said Angus.

"It's just Baldos," observed Beverly, scuffling at the failure of the others to linger so long over the idea of her self.

"I don't care, either. I only wish he was back here again. I'd be a good deal dear to him."

Messenger flew back and forth, carrying orders from the castle to various quarters. The ministers were called to meet at 12 o'clock. Underneath all the bustle it was a tremendous impulse of American daring, energy and resourcefulness. Every one caught the fever. Resolved, our diplomats were overjoyed, our soldiers forgot the regularity and formality of the ways of the new leaders without a murmur. The city was wild with excitement, for all believed that the war was upon them. There was but one shadow overhanging the glorious epithet of Graustark—the ugly, menacing attitude of Asaphia. Even the Duke of Mirrox could give no assurance that his country would remain neutral.

Colonel Quinlan came to the castle in haste and agitation. It was he who propounded the question that Beverly and Beverly were expecting. "Where is Baldos?" Of course the flight of the suspected guard was soon a matter of certainty. A single imploring glance from the princess, meant for the faithful Marlaus alone, told him as plainly as words could have said that she had given the man his freedom. And Quinlan would not dare a thousand times to repeat the secret of his servitude, for had not two generations of Quinlans served the cause of Graustark with unflinching loyalty? Baron Douglass may have suspected the trick, but he did not so much as blink when the princess instructed him to hunt high and low for the fugitive.

Marlaus was at 11. Under the defiant calmness of his bearing there was lurking a mighty fear. His body was scourged by thoughts of coming disgrace. The princess had plainly threatened his degradation. After all these years he trembled with shame and humiliation; he was to perish where he had always boasted of domineering power. And besides all this left Marlaus but a bullet in his left shoulder. The world could not have known to how he knew how to conceal pain.

He approached the slender, imperious judge in the council chamber with defiant terror on his face. He went down into the depths he would drag with him the fairest treasure he had coveted in all his years of lust and desire.

"A word with you," he said in an aside to Beverly as she came from the council chamber, in which she felt she should not sit. She stopped and faced him. Instinctively she looked to see if he bore evidence of a wound. She was positive that her bullet had struck him the night before and that Marlaus was the man in the cloak.

"Stop, stop," she said coldly. "He read her thoughts and smiled, even as his shoulder swelled with pain.

"I will give you the chance to save yourself. I love you. You want me. I must have you for my own," he was saying.

"Stop, stop! It may be your experience in life that women know to you when you command. It may be you have to wait what you set about to win. But you have a novel way of presenting your desire. I must say, is that the way in which you won the first fortune when you want me to go with you. If you scare them into submission?"

"No, no! I cared nothing for them. You are the only one I ever loved!"

"Really, Queen Marlaus, you are most amiable," she interrupted, with a laugh that stung him to the quick. "You have been unique in your love."

match. I am not used to your mouth. Besides, after having known them, I'll confess that I don't like them in the least. You may have been wonderfully successful in the past, but you were not dealing with an American girl. I have had enough of your insults. Go in and face it."

"I have a cure, girl," he snarled. "I have it in my power to make you go."

"Pooh! I came respectfully from her lips. "I will molest no farther. I shall call Mr. Lorry. Let me pass!"

Baldos was staring steadily across the park in plain view of all.

What They Say of Plays Coming to Colonial Theatre.

L. C. Winter will present at the Colonial Theatre on next Friday, Mr. George W. Ford's updated musical success, "The Show Girl." The production is a glittering spectacle in scenic embellishments and magnificient costumes, while the music is catchy and tuneful, tactfully interspersed with the comedy situations and the sort of music that one can readily whistle. The principal musical bits are: "Come Down, Come Down, Man in the Moon," "My Whitehaven," "Madame, You," "I'm a Soldier," "I don't Want to be a Lady," "The Manager," "Spaethie," "Roughnecks," "The One That He Loves Best," and many others. The chorus is well chosen and remarkably well drilled, while the members of the cast sing with abandon and vivacity that is irresistible.

George W. Ford's "Wear-Well" suits are now on sale.

One dollar to McKeever, Bradstock and Phillips and twenty-five cents a day during summer. Special "Gum Day" suits $3.00 a M.

NEW SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

Local Friends of Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald of the Recent Action.

Pittsburg Friends of Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, who was Mrs. Eliza R. Neccoll, of Brownsville before her marriage, have been informed that she has again filed a suit for divorce from her husband, this time in Ireland. Some time ago she asked for an absolute divorce from her husband in England, but the case was thrown out of court on the grounds that Mrs. Fitzgerald was an Irish subject.

The application now pending is for an absolute divorce, which cannot be granted, but the court may grant a decree nisi, and then, if she fails to appear in court, the decree will be made final.

SHOW GIRL TONIGHT.

Big Musical Comedy at the Colonial.

Mantell Last Night.

"The Show Girl" appears at the Colonial Theatre this evening and theatre-goers will have the opportunity of witnessing a big musical production. "The Show Girl" carries a cast of about 50 pretty girls, the music and humor of which is excellent and clever and it among those that have gained instantaneous popularity are "Come Down, Mr. Man in the Moon," "My White-Washed Man," "Ching Ling Pong," "Only You," "The Way of a Sailor," "I Don't Want to Be Like You," and "The Manseur."

"The Show Girl" has an entirely new cast of scenery and costumes. The popular comedienne, Miss Hilda Thomas, will be seen in the stellar role, supported by Lou Hall, J. J. McElroy, Eddie Wallach, Cliff Parker, Raymond Pheasant, Ned Wilson, Harry Tipton, Bert Eaton, William Miller, the famous Troubadour Four Quartet, the Rainbow Sisters and pretty and bewitching singing and dancing girls.

Robert Mantell again pleased a big audience at the Colonial Theatre last evening. Connellsville theatre-goers for the first time saw the great tragedian in "Othello." Mr. Mantell, Marie Booth Russell and Harry Lenihan won repeated encores. For their forceful acting, Mr. Mantell and his company is especially popular.

NO MORE CONFERENCES

Lincoln Party Will Act Independently of Republicans.

Philadelphia, May 11.—After a long conference here last night between the state executive committee and other prominent members of the Lincoln party it was decided to hold no further conference with members of the regular Republican party for the purpose of deciding upon a candidate for governor. This arrangement was made by Henry C. Newell, state chairman of the state organization, who also said that the convention would be held on May 31 as all had decided upon and will act as independent.

Among those who attended the conference besides members of the state committee were former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith; former Minister to Italy Peter, former U. S. Army General Wayne Mac Yosh, Wilson H. Brown, sheriff of Philadelphia, and Samuel Crotthers, president of select council.

WANTED AT MARIETTA

President Roosevelt Invited to Participate in Celebration.

Washington, May 11.—Senator Dick handed a delegation of 100 citizens which called upon President Roosevelt to extend to him an invitation to attend the ceremonies in honor of the laying of a tablet at Marietta, Ohio, in commemoration of the establishment of Marietta as the capital of the North West Territory. The oak wreath is to be held the latter part of October and will be made the occasion of a noble ceremony. The entire Ohio congressional delegation is present to preside over the ceremony. Representatives Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Longworth have indicated their intention to be present.

The president expressed interest in the celebration, but said he doubted whether he would be able to accept the invitation.
